Body Found in Rider's Castle That of

An autopsy was made today by Deputy

Coroner Glazebrook on the body of the unknown party whose remains were found in an old vault at "Rider's castle" yesterday,

as published in The Star of last evening.

Detectives Boyd and McNamee are investigating the case and the result of their inquiries will be made known at the inquest, which was postponed today and will probably be held tomorrow. At this time there seems to be absolutely no clew to

there seems to be absolutely no clew to work upon.

The authorities have been informed that about a year ago a man and his wife named Dorsey lived in the basement of the "castle." The couple, it is said, were almost continually quarreling and each threatened to take the life of the other. One night the Dorseys disappeared, and, it is said, since then nothing has been heard from either of them.

from either of them.

The autopsy was completed by Dr. L. W. Glazebrook, deputy coroner, about noon. In his report to Coroner Carr Dr. Glazebrook expressed the opinion that the remains were those of a women, and that the body had been buried less than a year.

Some of the police officials who are tak-

Some of the police officials who are taking an interest in the matter this afternoon expressed the belief that the woman had been murdered, and that a man who has been placed under surveillance knows more about the crime, if one has been committed than he cores to admit ted, than he cares to admit. It is argued that if the woman had died a natural death the fact would have been reported to the authorities, as every person belonging to the class such as has inhabited Rider's Castle for a long time past knows that the District will bury the dead when the

the District will bury the dead when the friends or relatives are unable to do so. Some persons have thought it was possible that the corpse found was piaced in the vault by a resurrectionist, who got it from one of the cemeterles, but this idea does not find much favor, because under the present law medical colleges can get all the cadavers they want for dissecting purposes without resorting to any of the practices which formerly prevailed in various places, and which sometimes acted as an incentive to grave robbers to ply their nefarious schemes.

Major Sylvester, superintendent of police, said this afternoon when asked by a Star reporter for his opinion of the matter that he believed the skeleton was what was left of a cadaver which had been resurrected for dissecting purposes, and that the parties for whom it was obtained did not complete their study as soon as expected, and that they hid the body in the vault.

Coroner Carr decided this afternoon that Coroner Carr decided this afternoon that Dr. Glazebrook was correct in his opinion that the body found was that of a woman. He also agreed with the deputy coroner that the autopsy indicated that she was a woman about thirty-two years old at the time of death, was probably five feet four inches tall, and that she had been the mother of children. Extension of Cuban Mortgages.

Mr. Desvernine, secretary of finance in General Brooke's cabinet, in Cuba, called on President McKinley yesterday with Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn, and urged the general extension of mortgages in Cuba. He recommended that mortgages on all plantations that have been abso lutely destroyed be extended for a period of six years, and on those only partially destroyed for a period of three years. It was also contended that the exigencies of the situation called for a remission of interest in all these cases. Mr. Meiklejohn today will present Mr. Desvernine to the Attorney General for a hearing on the legal aspects of the remedial measures proposed.

The President's Portrait.

Charles Ayre Whipple of New York has begun the painting of a full-length portrait of President McKinley. The President gave a sitting to Mr. Whipple yesterday. The portrait will be executed in the private apartments of the White House. Mr. Whipple painted portraits of ex-President Harrison, Gen. Miles and Secretaries Sherman, Herbert, Tracy and Elkins.

Appointed Second Lieutenant.

Upon the recommendation of Represenative J. S. Sherman of New York, George I. Feeter of Little Falls has been appointed a second lieutenant in the army. He is a nephew of State Senator Feeter of New York. He was appointed to fill a vacancy caused by the failure of a former appointee to pass the required examination. Quite a number of appointees have failed and the vacancies will be filled by selection gathering at Mrs. Talbert's residence.
After music and dancing the guests repaired to the dining room, where a collation was served. Among those present
